Testimonials

“

The research is clear that exercise improves mood and behaviour. What's novel about this intervention is the introduction of Exergaming as the medium to get students (many of whom are reluctant to be physically active) motivated to exercise on a regular basis. Rarely, in my 30 years as a head teacher, have I witnessed something that has had such an immediate and positive impact on both students and teachers

“

In all my years of working with students with emotional and behavioural issues, this intervention of exercise through Exergaming has had the most significant impact on improving behaviours of anything else I have tried. This has allowed my students to access their education, improve their mood, and make for a completely different learning environment.
